"BIG STEVE" PRAISED

After seeing West Liberty's "Big Steve" Hamilton in action against the Georgetown Athletics at Lexington last Sunday, the Lexington Herald's sports editor Billy Thompson used nearly a half column to praise the lanky West Liberty moundsman. He wrote:

"How good is Steve Hamilton, the 6-6 right-hander of West Liberty in the Blue Grass League? Could he step into professional baseball and make the grade?"

Bill Forwood, who has been managing Georgetown Athletics since 1910 and was umpiring baseball games before that, says that Hamilton is "one of the best pitchers I have ever seen."

While watching Hamilton in action yesterday, Forwood just shook his head as the gangling fireballer whiffed 15 of his batters.

"I've seen a lot of pitchers down through the years," Forwood said, "but Hamilton ranks with the best. He could go into professional ball right now and get the job done. He's a good pitcher. He has a tough fast ball and controls his curve well."

In the stands yesterday was Pat Lang, veteran scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Lang likes Hamilton, too, but he'll probably have to stand in line. Several (Continued on page four)

Burning Springs Association Of Primitive Baptists Hold 135th Meet

1,200 Attend Meet
At Elkfork Church
At Logville Sunday

More than 1,200 people attended Sunday's closing session of the 135th annual meeting of the Burning Springs Association of Regular Primitive Baptists held last week end at the Elkfork church at Logville.

The Burning Springs Association was established in 1813 and is the second oldest Baptist association in Kentucky.

Elder Robie Ferguson of Terryville, Lawrence county, was re-elected moderator of the association for the coming year, and Curtis Hatfield of Ashland was re-elected clerk and S. H. Ratliff of West Liberty was re-elected assistant clerk.

The association voted to hold next year's annual meeting at the Laurel Hill church at Terryville in Lawrence county.

Elder H. W. "Wick" Kennard of Ashland preached the introductory sermon at the meeting this year.

Elder Arthur Johnson of Cottle and Elder Kelley Profit of Morehead preached at Sunday's meeting. Elder Wick Kennard made the introductory remarks.

The association is composed of 13 churches that have a total of 609 members. The churches are South Fork, Bethel Chapel, Walnut Grove, Samaria, White Oak Grove, Elkfork, Bear Branch, Lacy Valley, Pine Grove, Paint, Laurel Hill, Cow Branch and Hoods Creek.

Elder Daniel Williams, whose grave at Caney will be marked next month by the Morgan County DAR chapter, was the first moderator of the association and is commonly regarded as father of the Burning Springs Association.

Elder Williams, who came to Kentucky from North Carolina with Daniel Boone, helped defend Booneborough and fought in the Battle of Blue Licks. Later he removed to Montgomery county and preached at the Lulburg church near where Mt. Sterling now stands. He came to the present site of West Liberty and settled in 1804, being the first permanent settler of West Liberty.

He had been a member of the Salem Association in Virginia and after coming to Morgan county he preached over a wide section and helped organize seven churches. These he gathered together at the South Fork church in Morgan county in 1812 and proposed organization of a separate association, it being difficult to attend the North Kentucky Association in the Bluegrass section of Central Kentucky. Accordingly, the seven churches met next year at the Burning Springs church in the present Magoffin county and organized the Burning Springs Association. Elder Williams was elected moderator of the association and served almost continuously until his death in 1820.

Elder Williams' rifle has been returned to Morgan county and will be on display when the DAR marker is unveiled at his grave at Caney next month. Other items belonging to the early church patriarch also will be displayed, including his tin lantern and possibly his Bible.

MAN, 21, HELD IN BANK-ENTRY CASE

Ottis Patrick, 21, of West Liberty, arrested here last Friday for breaking into the Commercial Bank in West Liberty the night before, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Ben L. Kessinger in Lexington Tuesday.

Patrick waived preliminary hearing before the U. S. Commissioner on a charge of entering the bank with intent to commit a felony and was ordered held in the Jackson term of U. S. District Court. He was released under bond of $1,500 to await court action.

Bank officials, when they came to work last Friday morning, found the bank had been entered during the night. A side window had been broken and unlocked and it was through the window that the burglar had entered. Drawers and desks had been pillored and papers scattered over the floor. A bag of foreign and mutilated coins was missing. No apparent attempt had been made to get into the bank vault.

Sheriff Aaron Lykins and Police Chief Jeff Lyons were assigned to the case by State Police Capt. Estill B. Jones. State Police Detective Mervel Canfield of Morehead and an F.B.I. agent from Lexington. Local officers took Patrick into custody at 2:45 p.m. after they learned he had pillored coins in his possession.

After talking with his father, who advised him to make a clean breast, Patrick admitted to the break-in, the officers reported, but said he was drunk at the time and didn't know what he was doing. He was taken to Lexington that night and lodged in jail.

Some keys and part of the bag of mutilated coins were recovered, Sheriff Aaron Lykins said.

6 CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS OPEN IN MORGAN MONDAY

1,000 Expected To Enroll In School
At West Liberty

The six consolidated schools in Morgan county—West Liberty, Ezel, Cannel City, Crockett, Wrigley and Woodbend—will begin next Monday. More than 2,000 children are expected to enroll in these schools.

County Superintendent Carl Stewart said school bus runs will be about the same as last year. There will be one extra bus at West Liberty to help take care of the crowded condition.

Because of lack of pupils, three one-room schools in the county have been discontinued. They are Wells Hill, with only 5 or 6 pupils—a bus will be at the school, building there about 7:30 a.m. to pick up these children; Muzz Shoals, with only 8 children, and a bus will be there about 7:30 to pick up these children; Jones Creek school, with 8 or 10 pupils. A bus will pick up these pupils at about 7:30.

Mr. Stewart said the schools and buses will operate on slow time.

Because of the crowded condition at the West Liberty school, children who will not be six years old before January 1st will not be admitted.

The high school faculty at West Liberty will be—

Lloyd Patterson, principal, Ezra Bach, social science, Mabel Barber, English, Mrs. Marita Ann Cain, typing, Gene Cain, coaching and shop work.

Robert Cassidy, mathematics, Dorothy Collins, biology and science, Arthur Johnson, social science, Mildred McLain, English and business, Estelle Nickell, home economics, Merle Nickell, health and coach, Junior Stamper, science and English.

Paul Williams, agriculture, Betty Jo Stamper, band, Faculty in elementary grades will be—

Katherine Walton and Betty Hammond, eighth grade. The first six grades will have the same teachers as last year: Lena Haney, Reva Henry, Dorothy Wheeler, Billy Jean Ratliff, Lydia Lewis, Oshi Casky, Zola Haney, Mabel Amyn, Anita Blair, Elizabeth Anderson, Bernice Henry.

Mr. Patterson said the lunch room will not open until Tuesday.

Supt. Stewart said that because of lower assessment in the county the schools will receive approximately $8,000 less in local revenue, and from equalization fund $6,948 less, and from per capita $9,000 less, making a total of $23,948 less than last year.

Lloyd Patterson, principal, said that he expects an enrollment of 950 to 1,000 pupils in the West Liberty school this year.

The new teachers at West Liberty will be Mrs. Dorothy Collins who taught at Cannel City last year, Merle Nickell who taught in Lacey county, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cain, and Mr. and Mrs. Junior Stamper.

PATRONS BEAUTIFY LACY CRK. SCHOOL

What teacher would not be glad to begin school in a building decorated from top to bottom and especially if it has been done by the patrons?

Saturday, Aug. 20, was work day at the Lacy Creek school, climaxed by a delicious potluck lunch furnished by the workers. The floor was covered by asphalt tiles; the walls were painted pastel green and pink with trimmings in white, and the bookshelves were painted dark oak. These colors harmonize well with the dark green drapes and green chalkboard. The playground was mowed, windows cleaned, dunes were washed, and even the desks were sanded. Everyone seemed overjoyed with the amount of work done in the day. All participating families brought food to make the delicious lunch which was enjoyed by all workers.

The teacher and the community join in expressing thanks to the superintendent for the paint and tile. There is still enough paint left to give the outside of the building a new coat.

The following people assisted in the work: Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Bolin, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lemaster, Mr. and Mrs. Reb McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Claud McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Arkie Williams, Stanley Hane, Manford Williams, Rev. ## LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MORE ABOUT JACK HICCOMBOTTOM

The Courier,

Your mention in a recent article, of one Jack Hiccombottom (Hugginbottom), recalls to my memory, the stories of my father concerning this master of idiosyncrasies.

As his stories go, Herman Greear and Calvin Stamper, having married two sisters by name Hiccombottom, came to Kentucky in the early 1830's and settled near the Greears and Stampers. He seemed to have been an ill-tempered, born of a mother whose name was Brown and a father whose name was Hiccombottom, but Jack though answering to either name, was usually known in this vicinity as Jack Brown.

Jack, as it seems had no other occupations than hunting or was doing nothing at all, but always carried his rifle wherever he went. In his travels he met Parthena, baby sister of my grandfather Geveland, and in spite of all protests, he captured the heart of Parthena and they married.

They moved into a cabin on the farm of my grandfather, which I now own, and there undertook to keep house, but Parthena was left alone most of the time while among the hills. Among his other failings, Jack possessed of an in-born and obstinate jealousy, and was known to sit on the hill side for hours watching the cabin to see if Parthena received any visitors. Then the crucial time arrived, my father and his brother Greear, early teenagers, decided to visit the hills and Parthena and Uncle Jack, and to hear some of his adventures. One afternoon they went to visit them but Jack was away. It had rained, the ground was soft and their tracks were plain about the yard.

When Jack came home the tracks were the first things he noticed, wouldn't give Parthena time to explain, but promptly beat her up shouldered his gun and walked into the woods. Several days passed; search was made but Jack could not be found. Grandfather took Parthena and her baby into his home and cared for them as best he could. A year or more after he left news came that Jack was living somewhere in the White-Oak country. Grandfather and his brother Joe tracked him down and found him living in a three walled shack, built of poles and covered with bark. He had a large trough hewn from a log. In this trough tilted up before the fire Jack had made his bed. They pleaded with Jack to return to his wife and child but to no avail. That was said to have been the last ever heard of Jack Brown or Hiccombottom, so far as to this community.

Their baby Judith grew up and married William Peyton. They raised a large family here on the Carter Fork of Gray Creek, who like most families are scattered far and wide.

IN OL' MORGAN

other major league scouts have already conferred with the tall, timbered twirler, but Hamilton wants to finish college before he embarks on a career in baseball.

Forwood continued, "I have some good hitters. They are pretty hard to fool on pitches, but Hamilton didn't have too much trouble."

You might expect Hamilton to weaken in the late innings, but he was just as potent in the ninth as he was in the first. After Bobby Terrell opened the ninth with a single and moved to third when catcher Claude Caufill tossed the ball into center field attempting to keep Terrell from stealing second, Hamilton bopped down and fanned Rhodes Carl, Phil Haddock and Bill Tom Smith in rapid-fire order to end the contest.

Forwood also was impressed with the West Liberty player. "They are the nicest bunch of fellows. I have ever played against," the veteran rule snail said. And those statements came on the heels of a 4-2 West Liberty triumph.

The Athletics probably could have had Hamilton pitching for them instead of against them. The lanky youngster was preparing to attend Georgetown College and moved his bag and baggage into Pawling Hall after transferring from Purdue. A few days later, however, he gathered up his belongings and lit out for Morganhead College where he starred with the Eagles last season on the basketball court and is looking for another great season in 1955-56.

DANIEL WILLIAMS

Through the efforts of Dr. Charles B. Stacey of Pineville and others, Elder Daniel Williams' squirrel rifle, powder horn and bullet pouch have been secured and brought back to Morgan county. They will be displayed in a glass case at the dedication of the marker along with other mementos of Elder Williams.

Probably some original minutes of the Burnings Springs Primitive Baptist Association will be displayed in the glass case and then placed on display in West Liberty for permanent preservation.

ELAM REUNION SET SEPT. 4

The Elam reunion will be held at the Elam River View Park, seven miles east of West Liberty on the W. T. Elam farm Sunday, Sept. 4 at 10 a.m. Notices mention to bring a basket dinner if convenient, but to come anyway.

—Mrs. Eddith McGuire secretary, Malone, and Willie Jr. Elam, president, West Liberty.

Hunting News

Jasper Dennis and Glenn Lykins shot eight times at a squirrel and then killed it with a shot. Some think the squirrel just got scared.

Robert May killed one squirrel and one coonhead Tuesday.

Dockie Doolin killed 6 as verified by his wife, Lillian.

Carl Stewart killed six squirrels one day and three the next. James Perry took all three of the squirrels from Carl's ear. We have not learned if action was taken. James says Carl told him to take them.

H. D. Potter and Marling went hunting and brought in two squirrels. Mr. Owens, who has a reputation for the truth said he believes Marling killed both squirrels.

Henry Ward, State Parks Featured In Current Saturday Evening Post

How Kentucky has built up a $500,000,000 a year tourist business, second only to tobacco as an income producer for the state, is told in a full-length feature article in this week's (August 27th) issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

The article, written by Falcon O. Baker and entitled "Kentucky Strikes It Rich," relates that the Bluegrass State's great boom in tourism has come about within the past seven years since she began pouring investments into recreation facilities for the state parks.

Chief credit for the tourist bonanza is given to Henry Ward, the state commissioner of conservation, and to former governor—now U. S. Senator—Earle Clements, and the present governor, Lawrence Wetherby.

At the time Kentucky began to invest in recreation facilities, the article points out, the state parks attracted fewer than 500,000 visitors annually. A million came in 1949, and by 1950 there were 2,000,000. Last year around 4,000,000 visitors were entertained.

The Post writer explains that when Clements became governor he appointed Ward commissioner of conservation and gave him a free hand to develop the state parks. The parks program has mushroomed until today Kentucky operates more park cottages and cabins than any other state except New York. Thirteen of the twenty-five parks are listed as "vacation" parks—that is, they offer eating and sleeping facilities, and a wide choice of outdoor sports. Overnight accommodations range from the ultra-modern Kenlake Hotel to a camping area with commissary, laundry room, shower rooms and fish cleaning rooms.

The Post article is illustrated with seven full-color photographs showing Kentuckians and visitors from far and wide enjoying the state's recreation facilities.

COLLEGE AGENT SPEAKS TO CLUB

Denver Sloan, director of public relations at Morehead State College, was guest speaker for the West Liberty Kiwanis Club at its teacher appreciation meeting Wednesday evening at Stamps. Mr. Sloan recently was named secretary of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association. Each Kiwanian invited a teacher to the meeting. The guests included: Mrs. Irene Murphy, Mrs. Catherine Walton, Miss Floris Cox, Resvie Wheeler, Wm. E. Heagen, Walton Jones, Mrs. Mabel Barber, Hobart Cassidy, Mrs. Ruth Conover, Mrs. Betty Wrae Hammond, Mrs. Lloyd Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Patterson, Jr., and Ray Stratton and John Aghraham of Illinois.

Mr. Sloan gave an informative talk on "Problems Confronting Public Education in Kentucky."

He told his audience, "You are stockholders in the company that produces education for your children. But your board of directors (school boards) and the managers of the various branches (school superintendents and principals) can't find enough of the right employees to do the job."

Something must be done to find the teachers who are needed to staff school rooms which our children are overflowing.

"There will be a shortage of 370,000 classrooms and over 120,000 teachers this year in the nation. In Kentucky 400 more teachers will be needed this year to take care of the increase in enrollment alone. And 12% of the present teachers are emergency teachers already."

"The teachers are champions of democracy. But Kentucky's schools receive only $35 million state aid as compared to $95 million in Tennessee. Kentucky needs $55 million in state aid for its schools. Actually $17½ million is needed to fully finance the Minimum Foundation Program for Education in Kentucky."
